Day/Date: Tuesday June 15, 2010

Time: 7:00-9:00pm

Location: City Hall, basement employee lounge

Procedural Business:

Membership: None
Secretary: Volunteer?

Project Updates:

Infrastructure:

- Community Path (Kathleen)

Events:

- Somerstreets: This Saturday on Broadway from Magoun Sq to Powder House. Can be there for part of the day. I would be willing to help with a ump and lube area. And possibly holding a mini-forum to discuss bicycling in Somerville (Steve would you want to help with this?) An impromptu bike parade might also be fun. Kathleen, is the City providing portable metal barricades for extra rack space? Location, near Trum Field?
- Art Beat: July 16 & 17. Anyone willing to see if we can still get a table? Worth asking, arts council may have already assumed we wanted a table. I will call Terry to see if we could get some street space for bike parking. (Kathleen and Alan)
- Somerville Climate Action: (Alan has contacts and further info on these events)
 - Wednesday, June 23rd 6:00 to 9:00pm Climate Change World Cafe. This is an invitation only event, which we've been invited to, would someone be free to represent?

- Thursday, June 24th 6:00 to 9:00pm Living Green Festival at the Argenziano School 181 Washington St, Somerville. Would someone like to represent us at this event? I will be out of town.

Education and outreach:

- Maps (Kathleen)
- SCAT (Kathleen)
- Website: Steve and I have worked on starting a blog. I have a couple posts in mind and under draft once we can get it to look good on the site. One of my posts is highlighting non-city organizations and writers that are promoting bicycling. It's nothing more than a list including bike shops, various blogs written by Somervillians, organizations whose mission actively promotes cycling. Would you please forward me any commendations. I'll likely include RedBones due to their unparalleled support of cycling, any other non bicycling business that is so active with cycling?
- Email: I have an old list from Alan and the list from the Historic Bike Ride. I'll be compiling and crating an announcement list soon.

Old Business:

Bike Counting: OSPCD has an intern working for the transportation group over the summer. The intern will be working to compile the bike counts.(Kathleen)

New Business:

None.
